Labor Compliance Seminar

California employers must continue to respond to an ever-changing environment in labor compliance.

TOPICS WE'LL COVER

- California employers' response to the new independent contractor analysis following the California Supreme Court decision of Dynamex Operations West v. Superior Court of Los Angeles County and the increase in misclassification liability
- In light of California's increase in PAGA litigation, the implications of the U.S. Supreme Court decision on class action waivers
- Trends and best practices for responding to sexual (and other) harassment claims in the #MeToo era
- Hostile Work Environment – What is it actually?

ABOUT THE SPEAKER

Lisa V. Ryan, Partner at Cook Brown, LLP is known for her work in the litigation of wage and hour class action, employment discrimination, sexual harassment, public works/prevaling wage, and labor law issues. She also advises private businesses and public sector clients on a variety of personnel matters, including discrimination and accommodation issues, drug testing, state and federal family leave, workers' compensation discrimination, and OSHA compliance. She regularly represents clients before the California Labor Commissioner, EEOC, DFEH, and WCAB.
